What you'll see...

Just this past year alone, AutumnColor has helped many of our clients complete a wide variety of unique projects. We handled everything from scanning Eric Meola's original 1973 negatives from the Bruce Springsteen cover shot of the Born to Run album to creating over 45 large photographs by Chris Barnes of a deteriorated Ellis Island for a traveling exhibition. Each day we have amazing images with incredible stories pass through our digital printing lab. This is the day we open the doors to the public to come and view this work and our process. AutumnColor has been in business for over 8 years in Worcester. Our process and digital talents have attracted many local artists and folks from all over the world. Come see those results.
